

National Severe Weather Warning Service

Chief Forecasters Assessment

A slow-moving frontal system is bringing a prolonged spell of heavy rain and strong winds. Rainfall totals of 60 to 100 mm are likely quite widely, with some prone mountainous areas in Cumbria seeing in excess of 150 mm through the rest of Saturday and early Sunday, perhaps even very locally over Cumbria a further 200 mm falling. Given saturated conditions and high river levels from recent rainfall, further flooding is likely.

The Met Office have issued an Amber Warning of Rain

Valid from 11:15 on Sat, 05th Dec 2015 until 06:00 on Sun, 06th Dec 2015

Rain, heavy and persistent in some regions, will persist through Saturday before clearing southwards early on Sunday.

Be prepared for the likelihood of flooding affecting properties and parts of communities. Watercourses may become dangerous, deep and fast-flowing, while further disruption to transport is expected. Note that river flooding may cause high impacts in small areas.
